It is primarily used in distribution technology and in industrial switchgear. The system can be operated by laypeople and is also approved for domestic installation. The Siemens NEOZED fuse bases 5SG1, 5SG5 are characterized above all by: 1. Personal safety thanks to touch-protected terminals at the entrance and exit. 2. Double terminal chambers on the comfort base enable the connection of two conductors with different cross-sections. 3. Significantly more compact design compared to DIAZED and therefore saves space in the distributor. 4. NEOZED molded plastic fuse base. 5. Visible, clear and controllable connection of the conductors. This makes cable insertion easier and saves working time. 6. Two series of types with different connection terminals increase the application possibilities.
